

Plenary Roundtable Title: Feminist Conversations Across Three Decades

Convenors: Gendering International Relations Working Group

Participants:

Professor Cynthia Enloe (Clark University)
Professor Shirin Rai (University of Warwick)
Professor Laura Shepherd (University of Sydney)
Dr Nicola Smith (University of Birmingham)
Dr Laura McLeod (University of Manchester)
Dr Akanksha Mehta (University of Sussex)
Professor Marysia Zalewski (Cardiff University)

Abstract:

2018 marks the thirty-year anniversary of the Gendering International Relations Working Group (GIRWG) at the British International Studies Association. To mark this special occasion, GIRWG is hosting a plenary roundtable dedicated to “Feminist Conversations Across Three Decades”. The roundtable brings six leading feminists, working across a range of intellectual traditions, into informal conversation with one other and the audience. The roundtable will ask participants to reflect on their personal journeys to, across and away from feminist IR; what debates have most captured their own imagination; and what participants would most like to ask one another and the audience.

Wine reception kindly sponsored by Sage Publishing.