Dear Colleague,

BISA is delighted to welcome you to London for the 2019 Annual BISA Conference.

The 2019 BISA Annual Conference promises to be our biggest conference to date. We have over 200 panels and roundtables, the annual BISA reception, postgraduate network (PGN) events, professional development initiatives, learning and teaching group initiatives, panels sponsored by other disciplinary associations, satellite events, a working group convenor meeting, working group annual business meetings and 22 publication stands. You will find all of these at the Royal Society, Prince Philip House and other venues around London. Please look at the timetable carefully in order to know the exact locations of events.

We look forward to seeing you in June and hope to see you again for our 45th Annual Conference in Newcastle in 2020.

Conference locations

The heart of the conference is The Royal Society, 69 Carlton House Terrace, St. James's, London SW1Y 5AG with some additional rooms two doors down at The Royal College of Engineering, Prince Philip House, 3 Carlton House Terrace, London SW1Y 5DG.

Your delegate's badge

Please pick up your delegates badge from the registration desk in the reception of the Royal Society so we know you are at the event. The desk will be open each day from 07.15am.

The Conference Team

Ms Juliet Dryden – BISA Director

Dr Kyle Grayson – Conference Chair

Dr Maximilian Lemprière – BISA Communication Manager

Dr Sarina Theys – Conference Programme Coordinator

Ms Dee Pettifer – BISA Administrator

Who's who at BISA

Conference Staff

Dr Kyle Grayson – BISA Honorary Secretary and Conference Chair

Newcastle University

Kyle Grayson (PhD York University, Canada) is a Reader in security, politics, and culture at Newcastle University and Honorary Secretary of BISA. He is formerly an editor-in-chief of the journal Politics and currently is associate editor of Critical Studies on Security and co-editor of the Popular Culture and World Politics book series (Routledge). Kyle joined the BISA Board of Trustees as a co-opted member in 2016 and has since become the Honorary Secretary, a role with responsibilities to represent the interests of members, be the 'conscience' of the Association, and serve as the annual conference programme chair.

Juliet Dryden – BISA Director

Juliet has worked in the field of international relations for the last 25 years specialising in programme management, international development/humanitarian affairs and donor relations. She has previously worked at the International Institute for Strategic Studies (IISS), the Royal Institute of International Affairs (Chatham House), the London School of Economics (LSE Ideas) and for 15 years with the United Nations in Cairo, Gaza and Jerusalem (UNRWA, UNOCHA, UNOHCHR). Her most recent position prior to joining BISA was at the West Asia - North Africa (WANA) Institute in Amman where she was the Director of Programmes. Juliet holds an MA in International Relations from the University of East Anglia. She is currently based in Oxford.

Dee Pettifer – BISA Administrator

Dee Pettifer has been seconded to BISA as Administrator since January 2018. Based at the University of Birmingham, she has worked within the School of Government and Society for four years. Prior to that, for the best part of twenty years, she worked as an Arts Administrator providing administrative and financial management support to a number of small arts organisations based in Birmingham.

Dr Sarina Theys - BISA Conference Programme Coordinator

Newcastle University

Sarina Theys is a Research Associate working on research impact beyond academia at Newcastle University. Previously she was a University Teacher in Politics at Newcastle University, co-editor for the Politics journal, co-editor of the Middle East and North Africa Newsletter published by the American Political Science Association (APSA), Middle East and North Africa Fellow in Qatar and Kuwait appointed by APSA and Research Fellow at Georgetown University, School of Foreign Service in Qatar. Her research interests include foreign policy, security, political power, identity, discourses, practices and small states. As a well-connected researcher, Sarina is highly experienced in the use of quantitative and qualitative research methods and has a strong record of interviewing political elites such as Prime Ministers, Ministers, Members of Parliament and Ambassadors, economic elites, social elites, cultural elites, and citizens from countries in Asia, Africa, North America, South America, and Europe. Sites of fieldwork span Belgium, Bhutan, India, Qatar, the Netherlands and the United Kingdom.

Dr Maximilian Lemprière - BISA Communication Manager

University of Birmingham

Dr. Lemprière is an Associate at the School of Government and Society, University of Birmingham, where he publishes on institutionalism, policy innovation and sustainable development. He is also the founder of The PhD Proofreaders, which offers ethical language support to international PhD students struggling to write in fluent academic English.

Who's who at BISA

Executive Committee

Professor Mark Webber – BISA Chair

University of Birmingham

Mark Webber is Professor of International Politics at the University of Birmingham. Formerly the Head of the Department of Politics, History and International Relations at Loughborough University, he has been the Head of the School of Government and Society at Birmingham since 2011. He is a NATO specialist and a one-time scholar of Russia and the former Soviet Union. Recent work in these areas has been published in International Affairs, European Journal of International Security, Review of International Studies, European Security, West European Politics, and Journal of European Integration. He is co-editor (with Adrian Hyde-Price) of Theorising NATO: New Perspectives on the Transatlantic Alliance (Routledge 2016) and is currently completing a co-authored book (with James Sperling and Martin Smith) entitled What's Wrong with NATO and How to Fix It. He is also co-editing (with James Sperling) the (Oxford) Handbook on the North Atlantic Treaty Organisation.

Professor Ruth Blakeley – BISA Vice Chair

University of Sheffield

Ruth Blakeley is Professor of Politics and International Relations at the University of Sheffield. She is Director of the ESRC White Rose Social Sciences Doctoral Training Partnership. Her research interests are in international security, terrorism and political violence, and human rights. Her research on the CIA's Rendition, Detention and Interrogation programme has had considerable impact, through litigation on behalf of torture victims at the European Court of Human Rights, and through various police and government level investigations into the role of the UK's intelligence and security services. She is lead editor of the Review of International Studies.

Dr Kyle Grayson – BISA Honorary Secretary and Conference Chair

Newcastle University

See bio above.

Dr Danielle Beswick– Honorary Treasurer

University of Birmingham

Danielle Beswick is a Senior Lecturer in International Development at the University of Birmingham, and also a UK Parliamentary Academic Fellow based part-time with the House of Commons Select Committee on international development. Her current research focuses on UK Conservative Party engagement with international development. Her parliamentary fellowship explores how committees can get beyond their 'usual suspects' when taking evidence to scrutinise government policy. Danielle's latest publication is an edited collection with Jonathan Fisher and Stephen Hurt, Britain and Africa in the Twenty-First Century: Between Ambition and Pragmatism (Manchester University Press, 2019).

Prof Vicki Squire – Committee Member

University of Warwick

Vicki Squire is Reader in International Security at the Department of Politics and International Studies, University of Warwick. Her research cuts across the fields of border, migration, citizenship and critical security studies. Vicki is author of The Exclusionary Politics of Asylum (Palgrave, 2009) and Post/Humanitarian Border Politics Between Mexico and the US: People, Places, Things (Palgrave, 2015), and Editor of The Contested Politics of Mobility (Routledge, 2011). She is currently completing a monograph based on her Leverhulme Research Fellowship Human Dignity and Biophysical Violence: Migrant Deaths across the Mediterranean Sea, as well as a co-authored monograph as Principal Investigator of the ESRC project Crossing the Mediterranean Sea by Boat: Mapping and Documenting Migratory Journeys and Experiences. Vicki is a frequent contributor to The Conversation and openDemocracy, and tweets @vidkowiaksquire.

Dr Julia Welland – Committee Member

University of Warwick

Julia Welland is an Assistant Professor of War Studies and Leverhulme Early Career Fellow at the University of Warwick. Her current research uses feminist insights to explore the emotional landscape of war and militarism. She has been a member of the BISA Executive since January 2017 and previously co-convened the Gendering International Relations Working Group.

Dr Toni Haastrup – Committee Member

University of Kent

Toni Haastrup is Senior Lecturer in International Security at the University of Kent. Her current research examines the regional dimensions of implementing the Women, Peace and Security agenda. She has been a member of the BISA executive committee for four years and a member of three of BISA's Working Groups.

Dr Benjamin Kienzle – Committee Member

King's College London

Ben Kienzle is a Senior Lecturer in the Defence Studies Department at King's College London. In this position, he is one of the academic tutors at the Royal College of Defence Studies, the senior college of the Defence Academy of the United Kingdom. He is also an Associate Researcher at King's Centre for Science & Security Studies (CSSS) and a member of the Observatory of European Foreign Policy, an international research group based in Barcelona, Spain. Dr Kienzle studies international security co-operation and is particularly interested in the control of nuclear weapons, European defence and 'Brexit'.

Dr Ross Bellaby – Co-opted Committee Member

University of Sheffield

Ross Bellaby is a Senior Lecturer in Security Studies at the University of Sheffield's Politics Department. His research focuses on designing ethical frameworks for the intelligence community and for cyber-activity. His ethical framework is set out in his book, The Ethics of Intelligence: A New Framework (2014). This work is further developed in papers on counter-terrorism and the CIA's extraordinary rendition program (2017), the justifiability of cyber-intelligence (2017), the ethical obligation of whistleblowing (2017), and the need for more dark web technology to protect against state surveillance (2018).

Professor Richard Beardsworth – Co-opted Committee Member

Aberystwyth University

Richard Beardsworth is the E.H. Carr Chair in International Politics, Head of the Department of International Politics at Aberystwyth University, UK, and Research Associate at the Institut des Etudes Politiques (SciPo), Paris. His interests lie in international and political theories, in statecraft and global politics. His recent publications (articles, book chapters, essays) rehearse a Weberian and republican account of ethical responsibility towards global challenges that re-aligns national and global interests and duties. His co-edited book (with G. W. Brown and R. Shapcott) The State and Cosmopolitan Responsibility comes out later this year with Oxford University Press. He is presently writing a manuscript on Political Responsibility and Leadership in a Globalized, Fragmented Age.

Mr Jon Gorrie – Co-opted Committee Member

Restless Development and SCI Foundation

Jon Gorrie is a Trustee and Chair of the Audit Committee of Restless Development, an international development charity focusing on youth leadership and empowerment. He is also a Trustee of the SCI Foundation which runs the Schistosomiasis Control Initiative, aiming to eradicate debilitating parasitic infections affecting 200 million people worldwide. He is currently studying anthropology at Oxford Brookes University. Jon was previously a Director at KPMG where he led assurance and advisory engagements in international development, focussing on monitoring, evaluation, value for money and audit with major donors and NGOs.

Dr Jenny Medcalf - Co-opted Committee Member, Foreign and Commonwealth Office

Dr Jennifer Medcalf is Head of the Defence and International Security Research Group in the Foreign and Commonwealth Office. DISRG, part of the FCO Research Analyst cadre, provides policy-focused research, analysis and advice on a range of defence and international security issues. Prior to joining the FCO, Dr. Medcalf worked at the University of Bath as Lecturer in Politics and then for the Ministry of Defence as Senior Lecturer in Defence and International Affairs at the Royal Military Academy Sandhurst.

Ms Amandine Hostein - PGN Chair

University of Portsmouth, UK

Previously serving as the BISA PGN Vice-Chair from 2017-2018, Amandine Hostein has since taken the lead as Chair of the PGN and plays an active role in overseeing its activities, supporting the membership's academic and professional development and enhancing the network's visibility. Having started in October 2016 at the University of Portsmouth, her PhD investigates how international NGOs' social media can be understood as transnational public spheres. Her PhD is informed by her broader research interests of deliberative democracy, global ethics, transnational civil society, critical theory and pragmatic philosophy. Alongside her research, she has taught at a wide range of IR units and levels, from undergraduate to MA-level as a part-time lecturer at the University of Portsmouth. She is also an editorial assistant for the Interdisciplinary Political Studies Journal and a member of the BISA NGO working group.

Working Groups

1. AFRICA & INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

Conveners: Dr Laura Routley, Newcastle University;
Dr Róisín Read, University of Manchester.

Contact: aisg.group@bisa.ac.uk

The Africa and International Studies Working Group brings together a diverse range of scholars working from, and on issues relating to, the African continent. We aim to provide a forum for discussion of substantive issues arising from a range of different dimensions of ‘the international’ in Africa, including theoretical and conceptual debates about the relationship between the various current foci of the discipline of International Studies and African historically-based specificities.

Our objective is to encourage and support researchers to explore both the ways in which African states, communities, business and others shape international politics and the theoretical insights about the international that originate in Africa.

2. BRITISH INTERNATIONAL HISTORY GROUP

Convener: Dr Patrick Finney, Aberystwyth University.

Contact: bihg.group@bisa.ac.uk

The group covers a wide range of subjects in International History including Interstate Diplomatic relations; Military History; Intelligence and Propaganda; International Organisations and Institutions; the History of International Relations and the Foreign Policies of States.

3. COLONIAL, POSTCOLONIAL & DECOLONIAL WORKING GROUP

Convener: Dr Kerem Nisancioglu, SOAS University of London; Prof Gargi Battacharyya, University of East London; Dr Nivi Manchanda, Queen Mary University of London; Dr Lisa Tilley, Birkbeck University of London.

Contact: cpd.group@bisa.ac.uk

The Colonial, Postcolonial and Decolonial Working Group (CPD) is a research community interested in facilitating interrogations of the colonial question across a broad array of approaches, issue areas and debates in International Relations. Our activities in the working group are not delimited by allegiance to any one set of concepts (e.g. neo-colonialism), methodological tradition (e.g. postcolonial thought), or ethics (e.g. decoloniality), nor to any particular time period or substantive area of inquiry. Instead, what draws us together as a research community is the positing of the colonial question as fundamental to inquiry. We are especially interested in supporting early career scholars as well as facilitating engagements between academics and third sector organisations.

4. CONTEMPORARY RESEARCH ON INTERNATIONAL POLITICAL THEORY

Conveners: Ms Flaminia Incecchi, University of St Andrews; Dr Christof Royer, University of St Andrews.

Contact: cript.group@bisa.ac.uk

CRIP – Contemporary Research in International Political Theory – is one of BISA’s longest operating working groups, established in the 1990s. Its main purpose is to foster research in international political theory. In this regard, CRIPT aims to offer a platform for discussions and forums for scholars interested in the application of critical and normative socio-political theory to world politics. It is also keenly committed to supporting the work of postgraduate and early-career researchers and sponsors events that provide career development opportunities for the next generation of theoretically oriented IR scholars

5. CRITICAL STUDIES ON TERRORISM (CST)

Conveners: Ms Alice Martini, Sant’Anna School of Advanced Studies; Dr Michael Lister, Oxford Brookes University; Dr Gordon Clubb, University of Leeds.

Contact: cst.group@bisa.ac.uk

The purpose of this BISA working group is to provide an international network through which scholars working on terrorism-related subjects can stay in touch, exchange information on areas of common interest, disseminate research findings in a mutually supportive forum, build collaborative links, and promote the study of terrorism and terrorism-related issues in the academy and the wider public. It aims to create and maintain a community of scholars that will function to broaden and deepen the study of terrorism beyond a narrow security-oriented focus. The working group will be committed to the promotion of rigorous and internationally-recognised scholarship, and to the promotion of greater dialogue between critical terrorism scholars and security officials and practitioners, in an effort to widen and deepen the public debate on responses to terrorism. Related to this, there is a genuine need to promote public education of terrorism-related issues so that a better informed citizenry can properly participate in democratic public debate.

6. EMOTIONS IN POLITICS AND INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS WORKING GROUP

Conveners: Dr Naomi Head, University of Glasgow; Dr Amanda Russell Beattie, Aston University; Dr Clara Eroukhanoff, London South Bank University.
Contact: epir.group@bisa.ac.uk

The BISA Emotions in Politics and International Relations Working Group aims to promote the study, research and teaching of emotions in politics and international relations. The role of emotions is increasingly being recognised and addressed in both the academic study of politics and contemporary discussions of global crises and policies. The aim of this working group is threefold; a) to provide a constructive and supportive space for the exploration of this field; b) to actively develop and expand this relatively young field; c) to strengthen the UK and international network of scholars working on emotions and, where relevant, to initiate dialogues with interested policy-makers and practitioners.

7. ENVIRONMENT WORKING GROUP

Convener: Ms Lavinia Ioana Udrea, Keele University; Dr Ross Gillard, University of Leeds; Dr Hugh Dyer, University of Leeds; Dr Duncan Weaver, Easton & Otley College.
Contact: ewg.group@bisa.ac.uk

This BISA Working Group was founded by Professor John Vogler in 1991, in the lead-up to the 1992 Earth Summit. Since this time, the issue of environmental sustainability has become increasingly salient on the international political agenda, as well as within the discipline of Politics and International Relations. The WG continues to foster the exchange of ideas and insights on all aspects of global environmental politics, including sustainable development, climate change, desertification, deforestation, environmental security, the energy-environment nexus, regional and global governance, North-South tensions, transnational environmental movements, IR theory, and environmental ethics and justice. The WG has produced two edited volumes and a special edition of Global Environmental Politics.

8. ETHICS AND WORLD POLITICS WORKING GROUP

Conveners: Dr Joe Hoover, Queen Mary University of London; Dr Elke Schwarz, University of Leicester; Dr James Souter, University of Leeds; Dr Maria Fotou, London School of Economics.
Contact: ewpg.group@bisa.ac.uk

The Ethics and World Politics Working Group is defined by the view that ethical questions are fundamental to the study of world politics. Formed in 2015, the distinctive contribution of this Working Group will be to forge a vibrant research community around three central questions: (1) how do we theorise ethics, world politics and their interrelationship; (2) how is theoretical reflection on ethics and world politics related to the practical conduct of politics; and (3) what are the unique challenges and responsibilities of teaching ethics and world politics.

9. EUROPEAN SECURITY WORKING GROUP

Convener: Dr Helena Farrand-Carrapico, Aston University; Dr Jocelyn Mawdsley, Newcastle University; Dr Arantza Arana Gomez, Birmingham City University.

Contact: eswg.group@bisa.ac.uk

The BISA European Security Working Group aims to promote an open end discussion around issues related to European security at large. The group includes discussions not only around the European Union and the transatlantic alliance, but also individual European countries, as well as both internal and external security issues such as terrorism, conflict management, organised crime and cyber security. Furthermore, as the concept of security has expanded to include new areas of activity (environment, energy, migration, finance, gender, health), it is also our intention to reach new communities of scholars whose work has traditionally been unrelated to European security.

10. FOREIGN POLICY WORKING GROUP

Convener: Dr James Strong, Queen Mary University of London.

Contact: fpwg.group@bisa.ac.uk

The group brings together academics and practitioners to analyse how foreign policies are devised, implemented, and interpreted. It incorporates insights from literature on decision-making, social psychology, security studies, economics, history, public policy and development studies and celebrates methodological pluralism. Many group members have a strong interest in British foreign and defence policy but contributions from comparative foreign policy scholars, analysts of other national foreign policies, and theorists interested in foreign policy analysis more broadly are most welcome.

11. GENDERING INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS (GIRWG)

Conveners: Dr Hanna Partis-Jennings, Loughborough University; Dr Katharine A. M. Wright, Newcastle University.

Contact: girwg.group@bisa.ac.uk

GIRWG engages in researching how 'gender makes the world go round'. In order to do this, it reaches beyond traditional IR to a wide variety of disciplines, including Sociology, Politics, Women's Gender Studies, Masculinity Studies, Queer Theory, Cultural Studies and Development Studies, while still maintaining grounding in IR and global politics. Members of this Working Group also work in policy-related areas, such as human rights, maternity legislation in Europe, and links between UN peacekeepers and the spread of HIV/AIDS.

12. GLOBAL HEALTH WORKING GROUP

Conveners: Dr Joao Nunes, University of York; Anne Roemer-Mahler, University Of Sussex.

Contact: ghwg.group@bisa.ac.uk

The Global Health Working Group has three principle aims: i) to consolidate and promote existing research on the politics of global health being conducted by scholars of international relations, politics, economics, sociology, anthropology and public health; ii) to provide a forum for discussion as to how the study of international politics can better engage in global health, and what global health offers for understanding the processes, actors and policies involved in governing global politics; iii) to highlight the relevance and importance of global health in the study and research of international politics.

13. GLOBAL NUCLEAR ORDER WORKING GROUP

Convener: Dr Hassan Elbahtimy, Lecturer, School of Security Studies, King's College London, hassan.elbahtimy@kcl.ac.uk

Convener: Dr Laura Considine, Lecturer, School of Politics and International Studies, University of Leeds, l.considine@leeds.ac.uk

Contact: gno.group@bisa.ac.uk

The Global Nuclear Order (GNO) Working Group was formally established in Spring 2013. The Working Group aims to promote interdisciplinary and world-leading research into contemporary nuclear challenges and harness the growing depth and breadth of research by scholars, practitioners and research students engaged in the study of global nuclear order. The Working Group organises an annual conference as well as several thematic workshops. It also acts as a hub for scholars and practitioners to disseminate their research and collaborate on research funding proposals and joint publications.

14. HISTORICAL SOCIOLOGY AND INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

Conveners: Dr Kamran Matin, University of Sussex; Dr Bryan Mabee, Queen Mary University of London. Contact: hsir.group@bisa.ac.uk

BISA's working group on historical sociology and IR is both a return and a fresh start. It is a return because what it proposes is to reacquaint two long standing friends who have recently become strangers - history and sociology. But the working group is also a fresh start in its attempt to build IR formatively into this relationship. What the working group is looking to do, therefore, is set up more of a menage-a-trois than a conventional marriage or partnership.

15. INTERNATIONAL LAW AND POLITICS

Convener: Dr Rachel Kerr, King's College London. Contact: ilpg.group@bisa.ac.uk

The International Law and Politics Working Group is a forum for academics and practitioners to discuss theoretical and empirical issues relating to international law and its place in international relations, broadly defined. Our aim is to facilitate collaborative and inter-disciplinary research and dialogue among members of the group and externally, expanding and developing links with relevant governmental and non-governmental organisations, and to provide a forum for members to disseminate their research through workshops, conferences and seminars as well as convening panels and roundtables at BISA and ISA.

16. INTERNATIONAL POLITICAL ECONOMY (IPEG)

Convener: Dr Johnna Montgomerie, Kings College London; Dr Daniela Tepe-Belfrage, University of Liverpool. Contact: ipeg.group@bisa.ac.uk

The main purpose of IPEG is to bring together scholars and students with an interest in IPE. It provides a forum where they can meet to discuss their work, and also seeks when appropriate to further the interests of this broad and growing academic community within the UK.

17. INTERNATIONAL POLITICS OF MIGRATION, REFUGEES AND DIASPORA

Convener: Dr Maria Koinova, University of Warwick; Dr Foteini Kalantzi, University of Oxford; Dr Neil Wilson, University of Leicester Contact: ipmrd.group@bisa.ac.uk

The Working Group 'International Politics of Migration, Refugees and Diaspora' responds to a growing demand to discuss issues of migration and international politics at BISA. It aims to consolidate discussions within several streams of scholarship, which speak to each other, but are mostly discussed in isolation. The group will incorporate scholarship on how diasporas as non-state actors affect international affairs for democratisation, development, conflict and post-conflict reconstruction, and how sending states exercise their agency to engage diasporas for their own state-building and economic projects. We also seek to understand large-scale refugee population movements, and how such movements speak to issues of human and minority rights, challenges to statehood, and diffusion of ideas across borders. In this, the group welcomes the perspectives of refugees themselves, states, the European Union, UN, and international organisations. We also seek to integrate studies on citizenship and its transnational dimensions, especially regarding dual and multiple citizenship, which underpin the politics of states towards migrants, as well as the transnational activism of migrants, refugees and diasporas as non-state actors. These discussions engage existing scholarship on migrant integration, assimilation, and securitisation, as well as on transnational aspects of migration such as building of transnational projects and spaces.

18. INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS AS A SOCIAL SCIENCE

Convener: Dr Audrey Alejandro, London School of Economics; Dr Alexander Hoseason, Aston University; Dr Michiel Van Ingen, King's College London Contact: irss.group@bisa.ac.uk

The purpose of this BISA working group is to bring together scholars and students interested in questioning the way we think and we do IR, be it from a theoretical, epistemological, ontological or methodological perspective. The group aims to be pluralistic and fosters fruitful dialogue with participants from all areas of international studies. It is centred on developing questions and areas often overlooked, marginalised or taken for granted in the discipline (for instance, our last two workshops focused on problematising 'the local' and 'the international' as categories of analysis, and on accounting for the performativity of academic discourses). Overall, the group is an invitation to push the boundaries of the discipline and decenter ourselves from the way we routinely do IR by being open to approaches from other disciplines be it sociological, regarding the end of domestic/international dichotomy, or philosophical in regards to the status of positivism in IR or how scientific IR can be.

19. INTERNATIONAL STUDIES OF THE MEDITERRANEAN, MIDDLE EAST & ASIA

Convener: Dr Ayla Gol, Aberystwyth University; Dr Ipshita Basu, University of Wetsminster.
Contact: ismmea.group@bisa.ac.uk

The BISA Working Group on the International Studies of the Mediterranean, Middle East and Asia (ISMMEA) aims to provide an interdisciplinary forum in which to bring a diverse range of scholars and practitioners together. The group aims to move beyond the hierarchical binary imaginaries of world order as the so-called the 'West' and the 'non-Western' worlds; to critically examine the constitutive role of the bifurcated view of world order on knowledge production, identity and power, and foreign affairs; and, thereon to consider ways of moving towards an alternative and inclusive approach to theorising on the international relations of these regions by drawing epistemologies from postcolonial, poststructuralist, feminist, constructivist and critical theories.

20. INTERPRETIVISM IN INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS WORKING GROUP

Convener: Dr Felix Berenskoetter, SOAS University London; Dr Iain Ferguson, Higher School of Economics, Moscow; Dr Evgeny Roshchin, RANEP, St Petersburg.
Contact: iirg.group@bisa.ac.uk; interpretivismbisa@gmail.com

Interpretivism in International Relations (IIR) is a working group of the British International Studies Association (BISA). It was formed in 2012 and offers a forum within which scholars and research students in International Relations, Politics, History, Law, Sociology, and cognate disciplines can meet to discuss their ideas, present their work, and contribute to joint publications. Its core objective is to support and advance conversations about how to 'interpret' world politics in its various manifestations. It seeks to foster methodological debate and innovations in the study of meanings, identities and ideas through various empirical approaches, such as discourse analysis, narrative history and ethnography, and by critically probing the role of theory and concepts in how we interpret an already interpreted world.

21. INTERVENTION AND RESPONSIBILITY TO PROTECT

Convener: Prof James Pattison, University of Manchester; Dr Jonathan Gilmore, University of Manchester; Dr Pinar Gozen, Hacettepe University. Contact: ir2p.group@bisa.ac.uk

The Intervention and Responsibility to Protect Working Group covers topics around the R2P and intervention, broadly conceived. These include, but are not limited to, prevention of mass atrocities, the ethics and politics of intervention, other forms of response to mass atrocities, the meaning and influence of R2P, the reform of the international system, and the importance of intervention and R2P for IR more generally. The group aims to be inclusive.

22. LEARNING & TEACHING WORKING GROUP

Convener: Dr Ross Bellaby, University of Sheffield.
Contact: blt.group@bisa.ac.uk

The BISA Learning & Teaching (BLT) working group aims to give voice to learning and teaching issues and to support pedagogic development, research and scholarship in International Relations in the UK; to encourage a vigorous debate on approaches to learning and teaching in our field and to learn from developments in other disciplines; and to engage in outreach activities with similar like-minded groups, both at home and abroad, such as the PSA's Learning and Teaching Specialist Group and the ISA's Active Learning in International Studies (ALIAS), and to engage with others from beyond the higher education sector. This group was founded in 2010.

23. NON-GOVERNMENTAL ORGANISATIONS WORKING GROUP

Convener: Dr Angela Crack, University of Portsmouth.

Contact: ngo.group@bisa.ac.uk

The NGO Working Group aims to promote the study of non-governmental organisations in world politics, including their role in domestic and transnational civil society; their involvement in processes of global governance; their effect on international policy negotiations; and questions relating to their legitimacy and accountability. It provides a forum where the implications and interconnections between such issues can be discussed, and facilitates networking and collaboration between scholars and practitioners of similar interests.

24. PEACEKEEPING AND PEACEBUILDING WORKING GROUP

Convenors: Dr Georgina Holmes, University of Reading; Dr David Curran, University of Coventry; Dr Philip Cunliffe, University of Kent.

Contact: pkpbg.group@bisa.ac.uk

The BISA Peacekeeping and Peacebuilding Working Group was established in March 2018 to provide a space for international studies researchers to develop their work on the various aspects of peacekeeping and peacebuilding. Peacekeeping and peacebuilding operations, broadly defined, are interventions of external third-party military, civilian, or police personnel (or any combination of the three) into areas of violent conflict, with the aim of reducing violence and building sustainable models of peace. With this, the working group examines the role of international and regional organisations, initiatives by single states, as well as efforts of non-governmental international organisations, extending across the range of military, police and civilian personnel in field operations. The working group encourages theoretical engagement with the broader concepts taken from international studies that underpin such interventions, the decision-making process behind them, as well as encouraging policy relevant analysis which engages with decision-makers and practitioners in the field as well as in troop contributing countries (TCCs). We also encourage interaction with different levels of analysis from understanding the experience of those at the receiving end of such interventions, the views of deployed personnel up to the outlook at the strategic-level decision-making processes undertaken by policy elites.

25. POST-STRUCTURAL POLITICS WORKING GROUP (PPWG)

Convener: Dr Christina Oelgemoller, Loughborough University.

Contact: ppwg.group@bisa.ac.uk

The BISA Post structural Politics Working Group came into existence with its inaugural event in November 2001. Its purpose is to provide a regular meeting point for academics and research students working with poststructuralist approaches in the study of politics and international relations.

26. RUSSIAN AND EURASIAN SECURITY

Convener: Dr Natasha Khurt, King's College London.

Contact: resg.group@bisa.ac.uk

There is a continuing and growing interest in the former Soviet space in both the area of security studies and foreign policy/international relations. While many issues are examined and written about from an 'out of area' perspective (e.g. energy; terrorism; regional security relations), there is a need to focus on cross-linkages between regional and global issues (e.g. Central Asia-Afghanistan-the 'West'; Russia-Ukraine-NATO/EU) in order to bring together disparate expertise in one forum. Valuable expertise on the subject-area can sometimes be lost to area studies, but we believe this energy should be harnessed to broader disciplinary areas of security studies and foreign policy analysis/international politics. BISA represents an opportunity to gain a higher profile for the study of the former Soviet Union (not just Russia) and to position this in the context of the broader field.

27. SOUTH EAST EUROPE WORKING GROUP

Convenors: Dr Catherine Baker, University of Hull; Dr Daniela Lai, London South Bank University; Dr Maria- Adriana Deiana, Queen's University Belfast; Dr Natalie Martin, Nottingham Trent University.

Contact: seewg.group@bisa.ac.uk

Established in 2002, the Working Group on South East Europe (the post-communist Balkans, Greece, Turkey and Cyprus) aims to become a space for debate and research on issues related to the security, political, economic, justice and social transformation and/or reconstruction of the region. The Western Balkan dimension of the group particularly engages with external state-building processes following the conflicts in the 1990s as well as issues related to Europeanisation, economic cooperation and soft security challenges. The aim of this working group is to strengthen the network of scholars working on the abovementioned themes and to initiate a dialogue with policymakers and practitioners interested in South East Europe. Future activities of the working group include joint panels at international conferences, specialised workshops and joint publications.

28. US FOREIGN POLICY

Convener: Dr Eugenio Lilli, University College Dublin;
Dr Matthew Hill, Liverpool John Moores University.

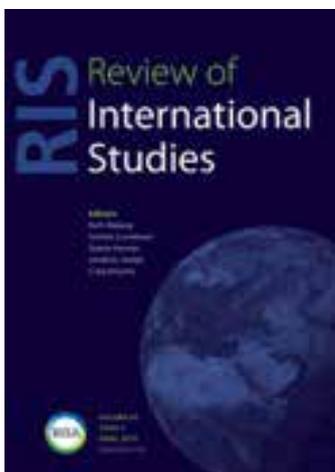

Contact: usfp.group@bisa.ac.uk

The United States Foreign Policy Working Group promotes the study, research and teaching of US Foreign Policy in the UK and beyond, and is open to all interested in the United States' role in the world. The Group convenes an annual conference, as well as seminars and workshops, and is especially interested in exchanges between scholars and practitioners of US foreign policy.

BISA book series

1. Review of International Studies

- Articles downloaded nearly half a million times in 2018
- 2017's impact factor of 2.067
- Followed by over 5,000 people on Twitter
- New editorial team taking over from January 1st 2020

Review of International Studies is committed to the publication of high quality articles and the examination of a broad set of research questions. The Review seeks to reach beyond the traditional grounding of the discipline so that it reflects the changing nature of global politics, new political challenges and contemporary understandings. It is a forum where meaningful discussion of pressing global issues can take place, and where the voices in that debate are drawn from a truly international community. The Review publishes work that is theoretically informed, empirically rich, and methodologically rigorous, and which also pushes the boundaries of the discipline through theoretical, conceptual and methodological innovation. The Review is home to a range of perspectives, a place where truly outstanding scholarship is showcased and debated.

European Journal of International Security

- Available in over 2,300 libraries worldwide
- Covered by Scopus and the Emerging Sources Citation Index
- Home to the innovative Junior-Senior Dialogue
- New editorial team taking over from January 1st 2020

The European Journal of International Security (EJIS) publishes theoretical, methodological and empirical papers at the cutting-edge of security research. Welcoming high quality research from around the world, EJIS covers all areas of international security, including: conflict and peace-building; strategy and warfare; environmental and food security; economic and energy security; human and everyday security; technology and security; and security governance. The journal is particularly concerned to make connections and build bridges, both between different disciplinary and theoretical perspectives, but also across regional boundaries and academic parochialisms.

Cambridge Studies on International Relations

Cambridge Studies in International Relations is a joint initiative of the British International Studies Association (BISA) and Cambridge University Press. Established in 1985 the aim of the series was to publish across the range of the discipline, in terms of subject areas, theoretical approaches, and methodologies. Under the editorship of Steve Smith, the series became the leading general series in the field, attracting major authors and establishing the reputations of several scholars who have subsequently become world figures. Subsequent editors, Chris Reus-Smit, Nick Wheeler and Evelyn Goh, have continued his work in drawing authors from North America, Europe and Australia, and ensuring a global market for the books. Its uniquely broad remit has meant that the series has covered a wide range of topics and approaches, including international ethics, political economy, foreign and defence policy, postmodernism, feminism, the quantitative analysis of war, constructivist theory, international law, the global environment and security studies. Among its distinguished authors have been Susan Strange, Kalevi Holsti, Alexander Wendt, Barry Buzan, Peter Katzenstein, Ken Booth and Friedrich Kratochwil.

The series has just reached a milestone with the publication of the 150th title in the series, Emanuel Adler's 'World Ordering'. On average 5 books are published a year and many of the books have won distinguished prizes.

Pushing the Boundaries: Talking about Race and Gender in Contemporary Academy

Tuesday 11th June, 11.30 - all day workshop and film screening, Queen Mary, University of London

Organised by the BISA Gendering IR Working Group, PSA Women and Politics Specialist Group and the PSA Race, Migration and Intersectionality Specialist Group of the Political Studies Association.

This interdisciplinary feminist workshop will bring together scholars from Politics, International Studies and other cognate disciplines to consider the race and gender dynamics of contemporary academia.

It will explore equality and diversity initiatives in higher education and whether they are conducive to sustainable change. It will explore precarity, pay gaps and mentorship, thinking about how academics continue to support each other and build professional networks, while also recognising that up to 50% of UK academics are on precarious contracts and that this has gendered and racialized implications. Another big focus of the day will be the decolonisation of our curriculums, and the ways forward for the discipline of Politics and International Studies, as well as academia more generally.

Three sessions, based on the three themes of Equality and Diversity; Precarity and Mentorship and; Decolonising Curriculums will shape discussions, with a series of excellent speakers to kick-off each session.

This workshop is designed to be conversational and dynamic. Based on a professional development model, a series of engaged and interactive roundtables will consider some key challenges facing contemporary academia from the starting point that the personal is political. It will be a forum to share experiences across contexts, career stages, disciplines and institutions and to build networks and foster collaborations.

As a reflection of feminist innovation, contemporary criticality and creative academia, the workshop will conclude with a film screening of the Bafta-nominated film Pili and a Q&A session with the film's producer, Professor Sophie Harman.

Provisional Programme:

11:30 Registration & Introduction

11:45 Session One: Equality and Diversity

13:15 Lunch

14:15 Session Two: Precarity, Pay Gaps, Mentorship

15:45 Coffee break

16:00 Session Three: Decolonising the Curriculum

17:30 Pili film screening + Q&A with Professor Sophie Harman & wine reception

Re-building Security Relations post-Brexit: Discussing the future UK-EU security relationship and its long-term implications

Tuesday 11th June, 14.00-18.00, Chatham House

Organised by the European Security Working Group

As we approach the prospect of Brexit, it is now crucial to consider the future long-term security relationship between the UK and the EU, and to shift our focus from disintegration to re-construction. Not only is it important to analyse what kind of security treaty the UK and the EU might be able to sign, including the possible legal and political formats for the new relationship, the timescale to implement new arrangements and potential roadblocks, but it is also relevant to reflect on a number of elements that are likely to shape the future relationship. In particular, what conception of European security could be developed beyond EU instruments and policies? Has the Brexit process eroded mutual trust and, if so, how will it affect the normalisation of security relations? And, what will be the UK's position within this new relationship? In order to kickstart reflections on the re-construction of the UK-EU security relationship, the event will gather academic and policy-making communities that have traditionally not engaged with each other, in particular the criminal justice and internal security community and the defence community.

(for registrations, please send an expression of interest to professor Richard G Whitman via R.Whitman@kent.ac.uk).

Other Internationals: world-making counter-projects beyond the state

Thursday 13th June 2019, 18.00-20.00 including reception. Room B04, Birbeck main building (entrance of Torrington Square, Bloomsbury), Birkbeck, University of London

Hosted by the Colonial, Postcolonial and Decolonial Working Group

This special plenary session brings together Prof. Gargi Bhattacharyya, Dr Su Lin Lewis, Prof. AbdouMaliq Simone and Prof. Robbie Shilliam who have each pursued vital research into various forms of internationalism which are usually silenced or marginalised by the discipline of IR. The aim of this session is to excavate some of the many forms of internationalism which exist alongside, and in spite of, the international state system. The conversation will reflect on how 'Other Internationals' have been fostered, how some of these have been variously inhibited and broken down, and how some have resisted and been reconstructed, even against the weight of dominant structures. The speakers will therefore consider Indigenous, Black, anti-colonial, feminist, and other forms of inter-nationalism which have been forged in defiance of structural constraints in the global system.

Prof. AbdouMaliq Simone (University of Sheffield, UK) Prof. Simone is an urbanist with positions at the Urban Institute, University of Sheffield; the Max Planck Institute for the Study of Religious and Ethnic Diversity, and Goldsmiths College, among other institutions. Simone's work spans issues of spatial composition the urban Global South, global blackness, and histories of the present for Muslim working classes.

Prof Gargi Bhattacharyya (University of East London, UK) Prof. Bhattacharyya's work within the discipline of sociology has broadly covered racisms, sexualities, and global cultures. Her most recent book, entitled Rethinking Racial Capitalism, maps out global histories of racial expropriation and analyses the bearing these have on the present.

Dr Su Lin Lewis (University of Bristol, UK) Dr Lewis is Senior Lecturer in Modern Global History and her research covers gender, cosmopolitanism, decolonisation, and migration from the late colonial era to the Cold War with a focus on Southeast Asia and port-cities of the Indian Ocean and Pacific Rim. Dr Lewis leads an AHRC-funded collaborative research network on cultural internationalism and the transnational movements of activists (including trade unions and women's groups), literati, and artists in the 1950s across Asia and Africa (<http://afroasiannetworks.com/>)

Prof. Robbie Shilliam (Johns Hopkins University, US) Prof. Shilliam's extensive body of work has revealed a great deal about the political and intellectual complicities of colonialism and race in the global order. He also co-curated with community intellectuals and elders a series of exhibitions—in Ethiopia, Jamaica and the UK—which brought to light the histories and significance of the Rastafari movement for contemporary politics.

Chair: Dr Lisa Tilley (Birkbeck, University of London) CPD Working Group co-convenor.

Pili

Thursday 13th June, 18.30, Lecture Theatre and Regent Street Lobby, University of Westminster

The Centre of Democracy at the University of Westminster and the British International Studies Association invite you to a film screening of 'Pili', nominated for a BAFTA Award for an Outstanding Debut by a British Writer, Director or Producer in 2017

Welcome and Introduction from Dr Thomas Moore, Associate Head of College, College of Liberal Arts & Sciences, University of Westminster

Film Introduction from Dr Sophie Harman

Followed by Q&A with Dr Sophie Harman and Mike Podmore, Director of STOPAIDS. This will be followed by a reception hosted by the Centre of Democracy, University of Westminster.

Pili lives in rural Tanzania, working in the fields for less than $1 a day to feed her two children and struggling to manage her HIV-positive status in secret.

When she is offered the chance to rent a sought-after market-stall, Pili is desperate to have it. But with only two days to get the deposit together, Pili is forced to make increasingly difficult decisions with ever-deepening consequences. How much will she risk to change her life?

This film is a unique collaboration between the film-makers and women in the film. The story is based on their stories, the cast features only one trained actor, 70% of the cast are HIV+, and all locations such as the AIDS clinics are real.

Director: Leanne Welham

Producer: Sophie Harman

Screenplay: Leanne Welham

Music composed by: Tim Morrish

Cast: Nkwabi Elias Ng'angasamala, Sesilia Florian Kilimila, Bello Rashid, Sikijua Rashid, Siwazurio Mchuka, Mwanaidi Omari Sefi

LYNNE RIENNER PUBLISHERS

Founded in 1984, Lynne Rienner Publishers remains a rare, independent presence in scholarly and textbook publishing. Where we are not independent is in our relationship with the community of people whom we publish, and publish for. One of the aspects of publishing that we love most is being part of that international, interdependent community. We publish in the fields of international studies and comparative politics (all world regions), and US politics. Lynne Rienner Publishers publishing program also includes FirstForumPress, established in 2008 and specializing in scholarly, peer-reviewed research of the highest quality, published in a timely and cost-effective fashion.

EUROSPAN

Eurospan is Europe's leading independent marketing, sales and distribution agency for publishers from North America, Africa and Asia-Pacific. Eurospan's client portfolio comprises academic, scholarly and reference publishers from both the commercial and non-profit sectors, a prestigious group of medical association and academy publishers, a number of important scientific and technical societies and intergovernmental organisations and several special interest trade publishers.

EDINBURGH University Press

Edinburgh University Press' politics books span the globe and feature some of the world's most valued political scientists, philosophers and thinkers. Our range reflects the breadth and vibrancy of the political landscape, covering subjects including Political Theory; International Studies; Intelligence and Security Studies; Ethics, Human Rights and Justice; Democracy; US and Anglo-American Politics; Islamic and Middle Eastern Politics; and, closer to home, Scottish Politics.

If you have an idea for a book that you'd like to publish with Edinburgh, email Commissioning Editor Jen Daly: jenny.daly@eup.ed.ac.uk.

Georgetown University Press is a premier university press and publishes content for a diverse, global readership in key subject areas including international affairs, priding itself on exceptional editorial and production quality. The beginnings of Georgetown University Press can be traced back to 1964 and they currently publish approximately forty new titles per year, as well as three journals, with an active list of almost 1,000 titles. With publications serving primarily the scholarly community but also the general reading public, books from Georgetown University Press attempt to illuminate, clarify, and respond to the world's most difficult questions.

I.B. TAURIS

The first publisher to focus on Middle Eastern history, politics and affairs, I.B. Tauris today publishes cutting-edge books in Middle East studies as well as global political science, international relations and medieval history. With attractive books aimed at students, scholars, policy-makers and the serious general reader, I.B. Tauris's commitment to intellectual rigour and new ideas has been a hallmark of its publishing for four decades.

Routledge partners with world-class authors, from leading scientists and researchers, to scholars and professionals operating at the top of their fields. Together, we publish in all areas of the Humanities, Social Sciences, Behavioural Sciences, Science, Technology and Medicine sectors. We are one of the world's leading publishers of scholarly journals, books, eBooks, textbooks and reference works.

Polity is an international publisher in the social sciences and humanities and our list features some of the world's leading thinkers. We combine the publication of original, cutting-edge work with a systematic programme of textbooks and course books for students and scholars in further and higher education. Many of our books are also of interest to a general readership. We are committed to publishing topical books with a critical edge that stimulate public debate about key issues in social, political and cultural life. Established in 1984, Polity has grown rapidly into one of the world's most distinguished independent publishing houses.

McGill-Queen's University Press is a scholarly publisher that defends, refutes, and creates fresh interpretations of the world. With over 3,000 books in print and numerous awards and bestsellers, our goal is to produce peer-reviewed, rigorously edited, beautifully produced, intelligent, interesting books. A joint venture of McGill University in Montreal, Quebec, and Queen's University in Kingston, Ontario, MQUP is both a specialist in the Canadian perspective and a publisher of international themes, attracting attention from the New York Times to the Globe & Mail.

Marketing and distribution agency for 16 North American university presses including; Cornell University Press, Duke University Press, Fordham University Press, University of Illinois Press, Indiana University Press, McGill-Queen's University Press, University of Minnesota Press, University of Nebraska Press, New York University Press, Ohio University Press, University of Pennsylvania Press, Stanford University Press, Temple University Press, University of Texas Press, University of British Columbia Press and University of Washington Press.

Bristol University Press, and its imprint Policy Press, are committed to publishing the highest quality scholarship in the social sciences and aligned disciplines. We want our work to make a positive contribution from the advancement of ideas through to practical implementation.

As a not-for-profit publisher, we are able to put integrity before profit and research before sensationalism to ensure that we provide an internationally respected platform for the global scholarly community to disseminate work that matters.

We are actively seeking quality academic and professional scholarship that questions the status quo, disrupts current thinking and reframes ideas in a global context.

macmillan

Palgrave Macmillan publishes award-winning research which changes the world across the humanities, social sciences and business for academics, professionals and librarians. We offer authors and readers the very best in academic content whilst also supporting the community with innovative new formats and tools. With offices in London, New York and Shanghai, and sales teams across 50 countries, we have a global reach. As part of Springer Nature, we are proud to uphold an unbroken tradition of over 170 years' of academic publishing.

The Royal United Services Institute (RUSI) is an independent think tank engaged in cutting edge defence and security research. Our research-led work strives to provide world-class, incisive and timely analysis on a broad range of security and defence topics, with multidisciplinary specialisms in Military Sciences, International Security Studies, National Security and Resilience Studies, Nuclear Proliferation, Financial Crime and Defence, Industries and Society.

We conduct evidence-based research, convene exclusive events with global experts and senior policymakers, and publish high-quality, insightful short and long form analysis of the most influential developments in the field.

At the core of our work is the active promotion of knowledge exchange and open dialogue between academia and policymakers. RUSI's events and publications provide a forum for informed, sophisticated discussion where diverse, evidence-based assessments of the relevant issues of the day can be discussed, challenged and understood – and ultimately have direct impact on the policy decisions of key public and private actors at national and international level. To find out more about getting involved in our research activities and events, publishing your latest research and engaging with our community of experts. speak to the RUSI team or visit RUSI.org.

CHATHAM HOUSE

The Royal Institute of International Affairs

Chatham House, the Royal Institute of International Affairs, is a world-leading policy institute based in London. Its mission is to help governments and societies build a sustainably secure, prosperous and just world.

The Institute engages governments, the private sector, civil society and its members in open debate and private discussions about the most significant developments in international affairs. Alongside its convening activities, Chatham House publishes a wide range of research including the academic journal International Affairs (with Oxford University Press), current affairs magazine The World Today and the book series Insights (with the Brookings Institution Press).

For the past 60 years the International Institute for Strategic Studies has provided research, facts and analysis on matters of international security. We are an independent, non-partisan institution with researchers based in London, Singapore, the Persian Gulf and Washington DC. Our research programmes address security questions regionally and thematically. These include:

- Defence and Military Affairs
- Conflict, Security and Development
- Indo-Pacific Security
- Middle Eastern Security
- Non-proliferation and Nuclear Policy
- Transatlantic Security

At BISA the IISS is demonstrating two subscription databases, Military Balance Plus and the Armed Conflict Database, which are designed to be practical tools for the researcher and policy maker.
